The Starting Questions

Pablos Tselioudis Garmendia

Question 1: What are your weak points and strong points in group work?
Communication, decision-making, scheduling, conflict resolution, etc...

My strong point is coding and solving problems step by step, my weak point is that I sometimes rush to finish instead of double-checking details.

Question 2: What do you hope to learn as a group during the project?
Communication skills, time-management, conflict-resolution skills.

I hope to learn how to split work clearly between members and explain technical ideas so everyone understands.

Question 3: What do you think the assignment is asking you to do?

We need to build an n-gram language model and word vectors on the Brown corpus, then explain our choices and results in a short written report.

Question4: Whatroledoyouhopetofulfillduring the group project?
Leader, communicator, to keep the overview, note-taker, etc...

I want to help keep the overview and make sure everyone's parts fit together into one consistent report.

Question5:Whichpartofthegroup assignment do you want to take the lead on?
Writing, researching, formatting, etc...

I want to take the lead on the coding part, especially the n-gram model and perplexity experiments in A2.2.

Question 6: What are your goals for the project?
A high grade, a passing grade, to learn something new?

A high grade, but also actually understanding the material instead of just finishing the tasks.

Question 7: What type of worker are you?
Whatareyourindividualstrengthsandweaknesses?Writing, researching, formatting, etc....

I work best independently once the task is clear, and I like to plan before I start writing code.

Question 8: What personal development goal do you have for this group project?
Become a better listener, take the lead more often, etc.....

I want to get better at asking for help earlier instead of trying to solve everything on my own.

Question 9 (Optional): If you had to move to another country, where would you move?
Forthetest,visitourwebsitetofindoutwhich colourdescribesyou

Spain, because that is where I am from and the quality of life is the best in the world

THE COLLABORATION TOOLBOX

Question 1: What are your weak points and strong points in group work?
Communication, decision-making, scheduling, conflict resolution, etc...

I'm good at decision-making and keeping communication open. I try to handle conflicts fairly and keep things moving. My weak point is time management, I tend to cut it close with deadlines.

Question 2: What do you hope to learn as a group during the project?
Communication skills, time-management, conflict-resolution skills.

We want to get better at working together and communicating clearly, managing our time, and coding as a team without getting in each other's way.

Question 3: What do you think the assignment is asking you to do?

It's about learning core NLP techniques, first building an n-gram model to analyze/generate text, then exploring word vectors to see how words relate in meaning, with some visualization and bias analysis too.

Question 4: What role do you hope to fulfill during the group project?
Leader, communicator, to keep the overview, note-taker, etc...

Just a regular team member. I think if we're organized, everyone can try different things and contribute across the board.

Question 5: Which part of the group assignment do you want to take the lead on?
Writing, researching, formatting, etc...

Mainly the coding, but I'm happy to help with writing too.

Question 6: What are your goals for the project?
A high grade, a passing grade, to learn something new?

A high grade would be great, but I mostly want to learn new stuff and build skills along the way.

Question 7: What type of worker are you?
What are your individual strengths and weaknesses? Writing, researching, formatting, etc....

I tend to procrastinate, but once I'm focused, I get a lot done. I'm more of a problem-solver than a planner.

Question 8: What personal development goal do you have for this group project?
Become a better listener, take the lead more often, etc.....

Getting more organized and staying on top of things instead of rushing at the end.

Question 9 (Optional): Do you prefer to avoid or confront conflict?

I prefer to avoid it if possible, but sometimes there is no choice.

The Starting Questions

Zane Bjornerud

Question 1: What are your weak points and strong points in group work?
Communication, decision-making, scheduling, conflict resolution, etc...

My strong points in group work are communication, honesty, and collaboration. A weak point would be scheduling.

Question 2: What do you hope to learn as a group during the project?
Communication skills, time-management, conflict-resolution skills.

I hope to get better at conflict-resolution skills especially when I believe my answer is the correct one.

Question 3: What do you think the assignment is asking you to do?

This assignment is asking us to examine how we work (as individuals) in teams and how we can improve on our own personal weaknesses to better the team.

Question 4: What role do you hope to fulfill during the group project?
Leader, communicator, to keep the overview, note-taker, etc...

I hope to fulfill the communicator role as that is the role I am most comfortable in, but maybe I will add a more leadership role as well.

Question 5:Which part of the group assignment do you want to take the lead on?
Writing, researching, formatting, etc...

I want to take the lead on the overall organization and final presentation of the assignment. Make sure everything is in order.

Question 6: What are your goals for the project?
A high grade, a passing grade, to learn something new?

Understand every section, every key decision and its reasoning, and what this project lays the foundation for (ie. extensions of this project).

Question 7: What type of worker are you?
What are your individual strengths and weaknesses? Writing, researching, formatting, etc....

I am best at working on my own and then meeting once I have a portion of work complete. I do not like to meet until I have something to show, at which point we can share ideas on the result and how to make it better.

Question 8: What personal development goal do you have for this group project?
Become a better listener, take the lead more often, etc.....

I would like to get better at scheduling and sticking to the scheduling.

Question 9 (Optional): Do you have a favourite sports team?

Ajax Amsterdam, Seattle Seahawks, Colorado Avalanche, Denver Nuggets
